

An aerial perspective of the Palace of Versailles and its extensive gardens. The central focus is the large, symmetrical chateau with its red brick facade and multiple wings. In front of the chateau is a large, circular, walled-in courtyard where many people and carriages are gathered. Beyond the courtyard, the formal gardens stretch out, featuring long, straight paths, manicured hedges, and several large, rectangular basins. In the far distance, the Eifel Tower is visible on the horizon. The surrounding landscape includes rolling hills and a small town to the left.
